

Thanks to the Three Arts Club, the Day of the Garret Studio Is Gone.

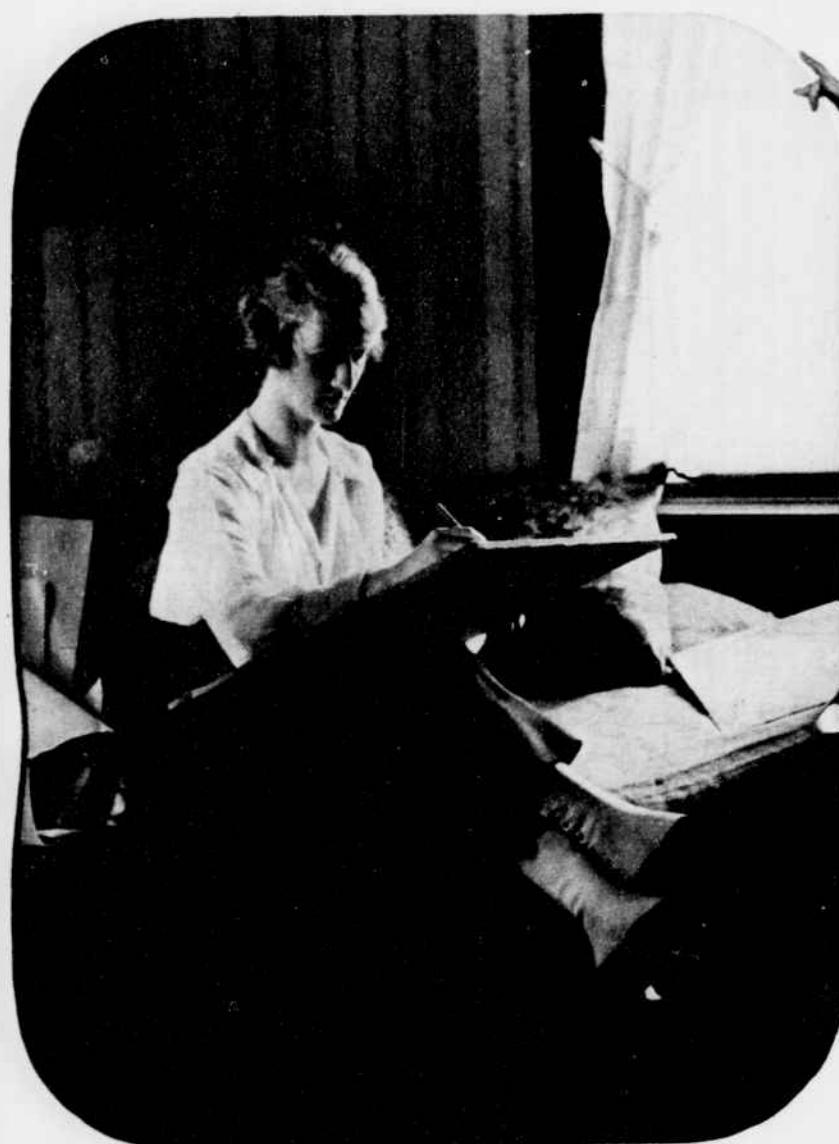

Photos by American Press Association

TIME WAS when the struggling young artist made coffee and toast on a trunk top. At the Three Arts Club, for $8 and up (slightly up) a week, one of the genus feminine may have a room and three perfectly good meals a day in the dining room.

ANY UNMARRIED girl less than 30 years old studying with a view to self support in music, the drama or the fine arts (including arts and crafts) is eligible to membership in the Three Arts Club. In the reading room at the Clubhouse, 340 West 85th Street.

MISS ELIZABETH GILBERT, costume designer and illustrator, at work in her room at the Club. In 1916 341 young women were enrolled as resident members.

TWO STUDENTS of the drama rehearsing their parts in the room set aside for that purpose. One hundred and forty of the resident members studied for the stage last year.

MISS UNA CHURCHER came all the way from California to study interior decorating in the New York atmosphere and be busy as a bee with a bottle of ink.

THERE IS PROVISION for regular laundry work, of course, but the Three Arts folk often find it convenient—and economical—to do up their own particularly fine bits of finery.

THE HOME LIFE of the club centers about the afternoon tea hour, when members, resident and non-resident, meet and when visitors are always welcome.